

Gwyn Morgan

Gwyn Morgan is one of Canada's foremost business leaders. He is the founder and a former president and CEO of EnCana, Canada's largest independent energy company. He is the current Chairman of one of the world's leading engineering companies, Montreal-based SNC Lavalin. He also serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the world's largest bank, London-based HSBC Holdings plc.

Mr. Morgan has been recognized as Canada's Outstanding CEO of the Year and also as Canada's Most Respected CEO. He has received four honorary degrees as well as the University of Western Ontario's Ivey Business Leader award and the University of Victoria School of Business Entrepreneur of the Year award. All these accolades aside, by his own account, Mr. Morgan is a simple country boy at heart who traces his core values and philosophy of life and business to his modest upbringing on a grain and livestock farm near Carstairs, Alberta. Like most farm kids, his day began with two hours of chores—milking cows, feeding pigs, collecting eggs—and ended much the same way. “Around our house, there wasn't any cajoling. It was simply expected that you do your part—and do it well.” Besides instilling a strong work ethic, Mr. Morgan says his parents passed on lessons that have guided him ever since. Among them: “Keep your word. Stay honest. Do your best. If the world deals you a tough blow, buck up and move on.”

Mr. Morgan is a wellness enthusiast and fitness buff who dedicates at least an hour a day to a vigorous cross-training regime including running, skipping, cycling, weights and yoga. He and his wife Patricia Trottier are advocates of holistic medicine and the need to change our country's “illness treatment” system into a true “health advancement” system.

Mr. Morgan is an Honorary Colonel (retired) of the 410 Tactical Fighter Squadron, Canadian Air Force. He is a Trustee of the Fraser Institute, the Manning Centre for Building Democracy and the Dalai Lama Centre for Peace and Education. He also writes regular business columns for the Globe & Mail.

Mr. Morgan and his wife Pat live in North Saanich. Their 32-year old daughter and her husband live nearby in Cordova Bay and have presented Pat and Gwyn with two precious “retirement gifts”—a three and a half year old grandson and an eight month old granddaughter.
